

Business Development Manager Netherlands

Company overview

Ikaros Solar, operating in 7 European countries, is a top-5 player in the C&I markets. It has installed 174 MWp of PV systems spread over 374 installations since 2007.

Our client list includes Fortune 500 companies like Ikea, Philips, Carrefour, Ahold and Johnson & Johnson. Ikaros is cooperating with major PV investors besides being a PV investor itself.

Background and role purpose

In line with its strategic growth ambitions, Ikaros Solar is now looking to hire a Business Development Manager (BDM). The mission is to develop new PV opportunities that will lead to PV EPC contracts.

The manager will apply his business expertise and commercial skills in order to identify and conclude new PV transactions. He will be presenting the company investors optimised PV investment opportunities. He will respond to customer demands for the construction of PV installations. He will be expert on his local PV market conditions and apply his vision and leadership to steer the organization towards the most lucrative commercial undertakings.

The BDM will report to the Group Business Development Director.

Position summary

The BDM will

- Develop the local business plans
- Understand local market conditions and eventual subsidy legislation
- Develop ground mount, rooftop, carport or on-water opportunities as most fit
- Bring these opportunities to financial close
- Develop an appropriate marketing plan to expand and secure transactions
- Administer and protect the contractual basis on which transactions are closed
- Manage his pipeline targets
- Assure the commercial - operational interaction of the local organisation
- Interact as the face of the company to customers

The contracts that the BDM has to conclude are extensive. The BDM will retain the position of Client Executive into the construction project in order to ensure that contractual and commercial matters are complied with.
